Solutions for Housing Communications Convening Postponed

NHC has been closely monitoring updates on COVID-19 and after careful consideration, we’ve decided to postpone Solutions for Housing Communications and convert the event to an online platform.

Any paid will have exclusive access to join the live event online. Video recordings will also be made available to registrants. We are committed to #SolutionsComms being a productive event, but not at the expense of risking anyone’s health. We always want our guests to feel as safe as possible when engaging in NHC events and meetings. In the coming weeks, we will share details on how to join the online event.

Finally, we are holding a webinar on COVID-19 and Housing on March 19 at 11:30 am EST featuring a presentation by the public health section of the University of Illinois Medical School, where my brother is a professor of public health and epidemiology. This will provide members with up to date information on the current situation and housing related matters, from a public health professional standpoint. We are also preparing a web page with resources and a FAQ that can be updated with sourced material on a regular basis. Registration for this free webinar is available here: https://register.gotowebinar.com/register/4856323362921018125. Please offer attendance to anyone in your network who may benefit from the information.

In the meantime, the best and most up to date information remains on COVID-19 is available at the CDC website, and the World Health Organization (WHO) has created a great website on common myths about COVID-19.

Stay healthy,

David M. Dworkin
